
NEW CREATIONS
"But he who received seed on the good ground is he who hears the word, and understands it; who indeed bears fruit, and produces, some hundredfold, some sixty, some thirty."

GLORY BE TO GOD ONLY

All glory to God alone! We praise Him for the privilege of being used to bring glory to His name. The heart of this book, Seed and Soil, is to guide readers and writers into a deeper walk with God, rooted in His Word. Our prayer is that every heart becomes fertile soil ready to receive His truth, grow in His love, and bear lasting fruit for His Kingdom.

As Jesus calls us to be new creations, we long to walk in daily transformation through His grace. Changed by Him, we hope to become vessels through which others encounter His renewing power.

Behind each page are dedicated hearts of individuals who made space for God despite busy lives. Their obedience has inspired others to step forward in faith.

This journey reminds us that God can use anyone. No gift is too small when surrendered to Him. Offer what you have, He will multiply it for His glory.

We ask for your continued prayers. Let us lay aside the old, step boldly into the new, and build His Kingdom together.

Let His name alone be glorified!

The Journey To True Salvation

In Exodus 14, we see how God miraculously saved the Israelite people. The chapter starts in verse 1: "Then the Lord said to Moses…" We can see that the Lord was speaking to Moses about everything He would do for them.

1. Listening to God's Word: God spoke and revealed everything that He was going to do for them to Moses, starting from where to camp, the hardening of Pharaoh's heart, and what He was going to do to Pharaoh and his army. But we can see that the Israelites, after seeing Pharaoh and his army, were afraid, and they said in Exodus 14:11, "Was it because there were no graves in Egypt that you brought us to the desert to die? What have you done to us by bringing us out of Egypt? 12 Didn't we say to you in Egypt, 'Leave us alone; let us serve the Egyptians'? It would have been better for us to serve the Egyptians than to die in the desert!" When fear came, they preferred to be slaves rather than to be free.

Most of us prefer to stay in our comfort zone; otherwise, we prefer to be slaves to our sins rather than to be freed from them. But the Bible says that entering the kingdom of God is like entering through a narrow gate—not everyone can enter. But we can see that Moses did something different in verse 13: Moses answered the people, "Do not be afraid. Stand firm, and you will see the deliverance the Lord will bring you today. The Egyptians you see today you will never see again. 14 The Lord will fight for you; you need only to be still."

How did Moses not have fear, while all those with him did? The main reason is that he knew what was going to happen. In other terms, he was listening to God's word, while others were listening to the noise of the world. So the first thing we should do is listen to God's word. As the Bible says, "So then faith comes by hearing, and hearing by the word of God" (Romans 10:17).

The Journey To True Salvation

2. Position: We can see in verse 2, "Tell the Israelites to turn back and encamp near Pi Hahiroth, between Migdol and the sea." The Lord positioned them in front of the sea. And in verse 15, the Lord said to Moses, "Why do you cry to Me? Tell the children of Israel to go forward." We can see that the Lord asked them to move forward, which shows that He had positioned them for a purpose. In the same way, the Lord has positioned each one of us in a place for a purpose, and at the right time, He will make us move forward. For that, we should obey and surrender to God and His word.

3. Moving Forward: God asked the Israelites to move forward (Exodus 14:15). An important thing to note is that the Red Sea did not split when the Lord asked them to move forward. Moving forward without seeing a way is an act of faith. God asks us to move forward in trust, even when we cannot see the path ahead.

4. Surrendering: In verse 21, "Then Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and the Lord caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night and made the sea into dry land, and the waters were divided." First, Moses obeyed the Lord's word—he surrendered to whatever the Lord told him to do. Next, lifting our hands is an act of surrender, acknowledging, "I cannot do this, but You can, Father."

5. True Salvation: Verse 30 says, "So the Lord saved Israel that day out of the hand of the Egyptians, and Israel saw the Egyptians dead on the seashore." We can see that whoever came to take their lives is no more. When our Lord starts to act for us, He will not leave anything undone. Also, after witnessing the mighty power of the Lord, the Bible says that the Israelites believed in the Lord.

In summary: Hearing God's Word eventually helps us to grow in faith, and next is positioning ourselves in God's presence so we can move forward toward Him. When we lift our hands toward Him, saying, "I surrender myself to You. Let You increase, and may I decrease," just as the strong east wind blew to divide the water, in the same way a rushing mighty wind will come and fill us (Acts 2:2). So when God fills us with the Holy Spirit, we receive true salvation. Our old sinful things are gone, and we become a new creation.

Dwell Faithfully During Hidden Phase

The hidden phase is the season of life in which God keeps a person hidden from the world, preparing and aligning them for the greater calling ahead. This is the phase most people don't want to be in. When we dive into the Bible, people who got promises from God had a hidden era in their lives. It is not to punish them but to refine, transform, mould and prepare for the greater commission forthcoming.

Joseph, the youngest and most loved son of his father, received two dreams in his teenage years: sheaves of wheat and, later, the sun, moon, and eleven stars bowing before him. Though the dreams were beyond his family's understanding, they eventually came to pass. At 17, he was sold into slavery by his brothers and later imprisoned. What seemed like years of loss, about 13 years of slavery and confinement, was actually his hidden season. During that time, God was shaping, strengthening, and preparing him spiritually, mentally, and physically to carry the greater blessing ahead.

When we look at Jesus' life on earth, we also see a hidden phase. Before His ministry began, He spent about 30 years in preparation. Those years were not wasted; they were essential for the greater mission God the Father had entrusted to Him. These examples remind us that when there is a greater purpose over a life, there is often a season of hiding. In those seasons, we may feel frustrated, overwhelmed, anxious, or even doubtful, forgetting God's perfect timing. Yet the hidden phase is necessary to sustain and carry the promise. If you are in such a season, be encouraged, God has not forsaken you. He is equipping you. His plan may seem incomprehensible now, but it will make sense when you step into your season of promise and purpose.

So don't get anguished by reviewing others' seasons; everybody is unique in God's eyes, and each one has different timeframes in the hidden phase. The Bible says "The word of God never returns void "(Isaiah 55:11), "When the time is right I, the Lord will make it happen (Isaiah 60:22), and "The Lord is not slow in keeping his promise"(2 Peter 3:9). Hence be faithful, align and humble yourself in God's hand and let God do the good work in you during this hidden era.

The Shelter I Run

"It is better to take refuge in the Lord than to trust in man."* Psalm 118:8

There are seasons when everything feels fragile. Plans fall apart. Conversations don't go the way I hoped. The future looks uncertain, and my mind races ahead, trying to secure what hasn't even happened yet. In those moments, I don't usually turn to God first. I turn inward.

I analyse. I calculate. I try to steady my life with my own hands. If I can think clearly enough, work hard enough, and prepare enough, maybe nothing will collapse. But the harder I grip, the more tired I become. Because deep down, I know the truth. I was never meant to hold everything together.

The psalmist speaks of "refuge," and that word feels gentler than the way I usually live. It doesn't suggest striving or solving. It suggests safety. A place to rest when the world grows loud. A covering when I feel exposed. I'm beginning to see that faith is less about mastering circumstances and more about relocating my heart.

Not standing taller.
Not pushing harder.
Simply moving closer to Jesus.

The storm may still rage. Responsibilities remain. Questions don't magically disappear. Yet something shifts when I stop trying to be my own protector. Peace doesn't come because life is fixed. It comes from remembering where I belong. Prayer slowly becomes that movement for me. Not a performance or a list of requests, but an act of release. I lay down what I cannot control and admit what I cannot carry. Sometimes all I manage is a quiet, "Lord, this is Yours."

Strangely, and to the relief of my heart, that surrender feels stronger than all my effort. So, when my thoughts start spiralling, and fear whispers worst-case scenarios, I pause and ask myself: Where am I seeking safety right now?

In my plans? My strength? Or in God? Again and again, I choose to return to Him. And each time, I find that the safest place I can be with all of certainty is His Presence.

You Are Treasured By God

None of us was born accidentally in this world; we are born with a greater purpose and a unique calling. We are very precious, loved and valued deeply by our heavenly Father.

He owned us by giving His own life on the cross, John 15:13 "Greater love has no one than this, than to lay down one's life for his friends". This scripture shows the depth of true love and sacrifices, something He demonstrated through His own life.

When the world was filled with sin, and the humans whom He created for kingdom glory sinned, without any second thought, God sent His only begotten son to die for us.

Doesn't that mean God treasured us more than his own son? John:3:16 " For God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have everlasting life.

Isaiah:49:16 "See I have inscribed you on the palms of my hand" Romans:5:8 “, But God demonstrates his own love towards us, in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us”. These scriptures depict the way God treasured and loved us even though we were sinners.

God didn't love the world on account of being righteous and holy; however,
He loved us even though we were filled with sin and unholiness.

Some people think that God will only love those who are righteous and holy, but believe the truth that He loves us unconditionally, no matter what kind of mess we are in; the only thing we have to do is run to Him and sin no more.

If we can just surrender our mess to God, He can restore us no matter what and how many times we failed. He treasures us and loves us unconditionally.

By His wounds, we are healed and made whole.

The Return Of The Resurrected King

In Hebrew tradition, when a master finishes eating and wipes his mouth with a kerchief, leaving it unfolded, it signifies that he is done. However, if he folds the kerchief and places it neatly on the table, it indicates that he is not finished yet and will return. In John 20:6-7, we read, "Then Simon Peter came... and went into the tomb; and he saw the linen cloths lying there, and the handkerchief that had been around His head, not lying with the linen cloths but folded together in a place by itself." Our resurrected King is coming again. As His servants, we should be ready to serve our King whenever He returns.

2 Timothy 3:1-5 describes the last days as "perilous times," marked by people who are lovers of themselves, lovers of money, boastful, proud, disobedient to parents, and unholy. You will hear of wars and rumours of wars... Nation will rise against nation... There will be famines and earthquakes in various places. All these are the beginning of birth pains (Matthew 24:6-8). Many will wander to and fro to increase knowledge (Daniel 12:4). Because of the increase of wickedness, the love of most will grow cold (Matthew 24:12). And this gospel of the kingdom will be preached throughout the whole world as a testimony to all nations, and then the end will come (Matthew 24:14). There will be great earthquakes, famines, and pestilences in various places, along with fearful events and great signs from heaven (Luke 21:11). Scoffers will come in the last days, questioning the promise of Jesus' return (2 Peter 3:3-4).

Yet Matthew 24:36 reminds us, "But about that day or hour no one knows, not even the angels in heaven, nor the Son, but only the Father." Regardless of when He comes, we must ensure that we do not run out of oil in our lamps when the bridegroom arrives (Matthew 25:1-13). Let us examine ourselves today and walk according to His truthful ways. May we all resurrect today and be zealous for our Lord God and walk in the Spirit so that we do not fulfil the lusts of the flesh (Galatians 5:16).

Hope Through Resurrection

“Praise be to the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! In his great mercy he has given us new birth into a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead.”- 1 Peter 1:3

Peter acknowledges that God, the Father of Jesus Christ, has shown great mercy to humanity. Because of this mercy, God has given believers a wonderful gift, new birth. When a person believes in Christ, they begin a new life with God.

Their past sins are forgiven, and they are spiritually renewed. This new birth does not come through human effort but through God’s grace and love. It marks the beginning of a new relationship with God and a new direction in life.

John 11:25 ‘I am the resurrection and the life. The one who believes in me will live, even though they die.’”

When Jesus says, “I am the resurrection,” He is teaching that He has the authority to bring life again after death. Resurrection means rising from the dead. Jesus proved this power when He raised Lazarus from the dead and later when He Himself rose again.

Therefore, this verse gives hope, comfort, and assurance to Christians. It reminds us that faith in Christ brings new life, forgiveness, and victory over death. The resurrection of Jesus is a promise that God’s love and life are stronger than death.

May the risen Lord fill your heart with peace, hope, and joy. May this Resurrection Day remind you that through Christ, there is always new life and victory over death.

Wishing you a blessed and joyful Resurrection Day!

Learning To Stand, Not Escape

"My Presence will go with you, and I will give you rest." Exodus 33:14

For a long time, I misunderstood what it meant to rest. I treated it like a switch I could turn off. Close the laptop. Silence the phone. Cancel the plans. Do less. If my schedule were empty enough, I assumed my soul would feel lighter, too. But it rarely worked that way. Even on quiet days, my mind kept running.

My body slowed down, yet something inside me still felt unsettled, like I was drifting without anchoring anywhere. I wasn't busy, but I wasn't at peace either. I began to realise that exhaustion isn't always about activity. Sometimes it's about instability.

In the Bible, the word used for rest paints a different picture. It means to settle, to land, to come to steady ground. Not disappearing from life but finding a firm place to stand within it. That changes how I see everything. Because rest isn't escape. It's steadiness. The ark in the flood didn't wait for the world to become perfect before it came to rest. The waters still surrounded it. The sky was still heavy. Yet it touched solid ground and stopped striving.

That image feels close to home. Because my life rarely becomes calm and predictable. There are always demands, decisions, and responsibilities. Patients to treat. Work to finish. People are depending on me. The waves don't simply vanish. But I can still be anchored.

I'm learning to begin my days differently now. Before stepping into work or opening another task, I pause. I breathe. I remind myself that I don't have to prove my value through constant effort. I already belong to God. I don't work for worth. I work from security. That small shift changes everything.

When I operate from pressure, I drain quickly. When I move from trust, something steadier carries me. So, when tiredness creeps in, I ask a new question: Where are my feet planted? On expectations and performance? Or on the quiet assurance of His presence? Because real rest isn't found in doing less. It's in His presence that goes before us.

7 April 2026

Right On Time

"Wait for the Lord; be strong, and let your heart take courage; wait for the Lord." -Psalm 27:14

Waiting has always felt like falling behind. I watch others move forward. New opportunities, open doors, answered prayers, and I quietly measure my life against theirs. I count the months. The delays. The silence. And somewhere deep inside, a question arises: Did I miss my moment? Why can't I reach those places?

It's easy to believe that God works as we do, in hurried, reactive, scrambling to catch up. But the longer I walk with Him, the more I see something different. He is never rushed. Nothing He builds is accidental. Nothing He gives is half-formed. His work carries a kind of careful precision that my impatient heart often mistakes for slowness.

What I call delay is often His preparation. I used to pray, "Lord, move faster. I need it now." But what good is a blessing I'm not mature enough to carry? Therefore, now I'm learning to pray, "Lord, make me ready." In the period of waiting, He is not only aligning but also reshaping.

Old habits are being stripped away. Pride softened. Motives purified. Expectations loosened. There are parts of me that need to be removed before new life can grow. And that kind of work cannot be rushed.

Refining takes time. Like a craftsman sanding rough wood or a gardener pruning dead branches, God works with intention. It may feel uncomfortable, even unfair, but He's not withholding. He's preparing both the gift and the person who will hold it. When I try to force outcomes, everything feels heavy. Doors resist. My heart grows anxious. But when I surrender the timeline, something shifts. I rest. I trust. I let Him arrange what I cannot see.

And slowly, clarity comes. Direction sharpens. Relationships fall into place. Not by striving but by alignment. I lean on this assurance that I am not behind. I am being positioned. God's timing isn't late. It's exact. And when His moment meets my readiness, what once felt impossible won't need pushing; it will simply unfold. Right on time.

8 April 2026

Fed By the Word

"Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that comes from the mouth of God."* Matthew 4:4

Picture the scene quietly. The wilderness stretches wide and empty. No shade. No crowds. No comfort. After forty days of fasting, Jesus stands physically drained, His body worn thin from hunger. And that is exactly when Satan comes.

Not at a moment of strength but at a moment of weakness. He approaches with a subtle challenge: "If You are the Son of God, turn these stones into bread." It sounds practical. Even reasonable. Of course, a hungry man should eat. But this wasn't really about food. It was about identity.

"If You are…" Those three words carry the real temptation. A seed of doubt. A quiet push to prove Himself. A suggestion to step outside the Father's will and take control. Isn't that how temptation often works in our lives, too? When we're tired, discouraged, or stretched thin, the whispers grow louder. Take shortcuts. Fix it yourself. Don't wait on God. Prove your worth.

The enemy rarely tempts us with obvious evil. He tempts us with independence. The choice between Good and Almost Good. Yet Jesus doesn't defend Himself or perform a miracle to silence the challenge. Instead, He answers with Scripture. "Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that comes from the mouth of God."

In other words, there is a deeper hunger than the body's. And only God's voice can satisfy it. Jesus chooses trust over immediate relief. Dependence on self-sufficiency. Truth over impulse. Watching Him, we learn that strength isn't found in grasping what we crave. It's found in anchoring ourselves to what God has already said.

Today, you may feel empty emotionally, physically, and spiritually. You may be tempted to rush ahead or solve everything on your own. Pause before you do. Feed on His Word first. Let His promises steady you. Because when your heart is nourished by God, even the wilderness cannot starve your soul.

9 April 2026

Trust Before The Miracle

"Go," Jesus replied, "your son will live." The man took Jesus at His word and departed.* John 4:50

A father rushes toward Jesus, heart pounding, hope thin. His son is dying miles away. Time is slipping through his fingers. Every breath feels urgent. He doesn't want theology. He wants a miracle. "Please come," he pleads. "Heal my child."

But instead of immediately following him, Jesus says something unexpected. Almost sharp. "Will you never believe unless you see signs and wonders?" At first, it sounds harsh. Why speak this way to a desperate parent? But look closer. All through the Gospels, crowds demand proof. Perform for us. Show us something spectacular. Then we'll believe. Faith, for them, is conditional.

Do this first, then we'll trust You. It's less of a relationship and more of a transaction. And we do the same, don't we? "Lord, fix this problem." "Answer this prayer." "Show me something obvious." Only then will we rest. Only then will we believe. Without realising it, we reduce God to a contract. As if love must be earned through performance.

Jesus didn't come to build customers. He came to restore children. Children don't negotiate with their father. They trust His heart. So, Jesus gives the man something deeper than a visible sign. He gives him a word. "Go. Your son will live." No spectacle. No dramatic display. Just a promise.

And here is the turning point: the man leaves. He walks away without seeing anything. He trusts what Jesus said even before he witnessed the miracle. That kind of faith moves me. Because it means believing God's heart even when my eyes see nothing yet. It means resting in who He is, not what He performs. After all, the greatest proof has already been given. The cross. His love has already been settled.

Today, I'm learning to stop demanding signs. To loosen my grip. To take Him at His word. Because real faith doesn't say, "Show me, then I'll trust." It says, "I trust You even before I see."

Unworthy, Yet Chosen

I am not even worthy to be remembered by you, Lord. But you call me yours. Why, why do you love me so much? Failing again and again. At some point, we demonise ourselves anyway.

We might think there is no way God would take me back after hurting Christ and trying to normalise the sin. But there will be a voice within you, making you ask sorry, making you stay completely drenched with the sin we have committed for the whole day.

There will always be a space in your heart that something apt for your heart is missing. Deep down, you know that's Christ. Thank God for that guilt and the inner man. Without that voice, there's no going back to Christ.

As I write this to you, I know I might fall short of His glory, mercy and His love. But the Lord did not come to this world for the righteous. He came for a sinner like me.

How could I not love a Lord who said, "If I walk to Him, He would run towards me." We might face a lot of troubles, or you might come up here with a lot of questions and confusion. But He says we are His. You are His. I am yours, Lord.

As the chapter Matthew 6:26 says, look at the birds of the air, that they do not sow nor reap nor gather into barns, and yet your heavenly Father feeds them. Are you not worth much more than they?

We are not alone in the tribulations. The Lord catches us when we fall. Heaven comes to fight for us. It's just grateful to think, Lord, you don't need a single thing, and still, you want our Hearts.

Where God Directs - He Provides

We are children of God who love to do what God is asking us to do at times, yet we doubt God and ourselves, whether we have chosen the right way or if it is really what God wants us to do. If God calls you to it, He has already gone before you and made the way. Throughout the Bible, we see God's directions and supernatural provisions for its fulfilment.

God's people, the Israelites, lived as slaves in Egypt for many years until He chose to deliver them and lead them to the promised land, Canaan. God chose Moses, and after mighty miracles, they began their journey toward Canaan. Most of the time their voyage was through wilderness, and there were thousands of people, including their livestock. There was no life, no shops or villages along the way, yet the God who led them out of slavery provided for them in supernatural ways. He opened the doors of Heaven and granted them the food which no human had eaten before.

When these Israelites arrived at a particular place in the wilderness, there was no water. The God who knew that His people would pass by this place has already kept a rock filled with water, and when they needed it, He guided Moses to release it for them from the rock. And when they were in the wilderness, still on the way, they asked for meat where there was no possibility for them. God, who brought them out of Egypt, sent a wind to bring Quail for his children. Numbers: 11: 31 The Lord sent quail from the sea for the Israelites. If God directs you to do something, believe and trust in him that the provisions are already prepared.

It wasn't a short journey but forty years, and the Lord remained faithful, providing for them every step of the way. As Deuteronomy 8:4 says, "Your garments did not wear out on you, nor did your foot swell these forty years," revealing His divine love and care for those He calls.

My beloved readers, in our lives, if God directs you beyond your understanding, take a leap of faith. He never calls without preparing the way. Trust Him in every circumstance, and may you witness the supernatural doors He has already set before you.

Surrendering Love To God

"For My thoughts are not your thoughts, nor are your ways My ways," says the Lord. "For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are My ways higher than your ways, and My thoughts than your thoughts."
Isaiah 55:8–9

Sometimes the heart carries a quiet love that no one else sees. It grows gently within, hoping to be noticed and to matter. Yet in moments of stillness, God reminds us that not every love we feel is meant to be held onto. Sometimes it is meant to be surrendered.

There are times when we see someone struggling, uncertain about the future, fearful, and feeling inadequate. Naturally, the heart desires to comfort, support, and walk closely beside them. Yet God may place us in someone's life not to possess their heart, but to gently guide them closer to Him.

Surrendering love is not easy. Our hearts often imagine a certain future or closeness. But in the midst of these emotions, God does not mock our feelings or judge our hearts. Instead, He remains present with us calmly and gently reminding us to trust Him and surrender what we cannot control.

What feels like unanswered longing may actually be God shaping both hearts according to His greater purpose. When love is placed into His hands, it begins to transform. Personal longing can become prayer, and attachment can become sincere care for the other person's well-being.

Devotion means choosing God's will even when the heart does not fully understand. It means trusting that His wisdom sees beyond what we can see. When love is surrendered to Him, it becomes a quiet act of faith, believing that His ways are always higher and better than our own.

He's Not Done!

There are times in life when you do not see change at all. Times when you wish you could've been something or someone better, but you can't, no matter how hard you try. Moments when you feel like you're still the same person you used to be, and that nothing has changed.

Isaiah 64:8 says, "But now, O Lord, You are our Father; We are the clay, and You our potter; And all we are the work of Your hand."

We know that we are clay in the Potter's hands, and that He moulds us according to His will. On some days, we might not be able to appreciate His work on us. But we can always be sure that even when we don't see it, He is continually working on us.

All it takes is that we understand that we are nothing but clay to be moulded in His hands, and completely surrender ourselves to Him. Each day, with each joy, each sorrow, with each victory, each failure, He is working on us. All these years, He's been changing and moulding us, even though we may not see it. And even now, He is moulding us to become His vessel.

How amazing it is that the Lord, who took only six days to create the entire world, is still working on you and me, even today! So don't lose heart, even now, He's working on you, and making you His vessel.

I'm reminded of this Sunday school song, which says, "It took him just a week to make the moon and stars. The Sun, the Earth, Jupiter and Mars. How loving and patient He must be. 'Cause He's still workin' on me."

What Does The Bible Say To Lonely People?

Time and again throughout the Old Testament, we find the Lord reaching out to His people, revealing Himself to them, desiring to be with them, and communicating with them. In 1 Samuel 12:22, we find the promise of God: "The Lord will not forsake His people, for His great name's sake, because it has pleased the Lord to make you His people." God desires companionship, fellowship, and communion with those who will reciprocate His expressions of friendship.

We can count on the close communion of the Lord, even if everyone else abandons us. We see this in the life of Jesus. On the very night He was arrested and put on trial - the trial that led to His crucifixion - He said to His disciples, "Indeed the hour is coming, yes, has now come, that you will be scattered, each to his own, and will leave Me alone." Can you hear the pain in that statement? Jesus knew what it was to be lonely. But then He said, "And yet I am not alone, because the Father is with Me." (John 16:32). Jesus knew what it was to be comforted in the face of abandonment.

When loneliness engulfs us, the first thing we must do is turn our focus away from what we don't have to what we do have. What do we have, you may ask? God Himself.

You can never be alone once you have trusted in Jesus Christ as your Saviour. He promises that He dwells within you when you receive Him into your life and that He is connected to you, just as a vine and a branch are connected. In the same way that sap flows through a vine and its branches, so too the love of Christ flows in you and through you. He abides in you, and you abide in Him. You are one being with Christ. You share with Him the most intimate relationship possible - an eternal spiritual intimacy (John 15:1–9).

The depth of that intimacy, to a great extent, is up to you. How much do you desire intimacy with the Lord? How much do you allow Him to fill you with His presence? Are you willing for Him to reveal Himself to you? Even so, you can never totally isolate yourself from the Lord. He is always there, desiring to move ever closer to you.

Grace For Every Crisis

God is our refuge and strength, an ever-present help in trouble. Psalm 46:1

Crises rarely announce themselves. They just arrive suddenly. A troubling diagnosis, a financial strain, a broken relationship, or an unexpected turn in life. In those moments, the ground beneath our feet feels as if giving way. Our minds get flooded with the questions: What now? How will I get through this?

The Bible reminds us that God is not distant during our crises. Psalm 46:1 says that He is our refuge and strength, an ever-present help in trouble. The phrase "ever-present" is deeply comforting. It means that God's help is not delayed, not distant, and not reserved only for the strongest believers. His presence is immediate, steady, and indeed very personal.

Our first instinct in a crisis is to rely on our own understanding first. We attempt to calculate solutions, anticipate outcomes, and control what feels uncontrollable. Yet, crises have a way of revealing our limitations. They expose how fragile our sense of control really is.

But this is precisely where our faith grows. When our own strength proves insufficient, we become aware of the need to lean on a strength that is greater than ours. God does not always remove the storm immediately, but He promises to be our refuge within it. A refuge does not eliminate the storm outside. It provides safety in the midst of it.

Looking back, many of us can recognise moments when God quietly carried us through seasons we thought we could not survive. At the time, the path felt overwhelming. Yet step by step, grace met us where we were. Doors opened, strength appeared, and peace settled in ways we could not have manufactured ourselves.

Every crisis becomes an invitation to trust more deeply, to surrender control, and to discover that God's care is larger than our fears.

Today, whatever crisis you face, whether big or small, remember that you are not navigating it alone. God stands as your refuge, ready to sustain you. The storm may be real, but so is His presence. And His presence is always enough.

A Heart That Keeps Watch

Be sober, be vigilant; because your adversary the devil walks about like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour." -1 Peter 5:8

Vigilance is a word that speaks of alertness, awareness, and readiness. In the Christian life, it refers to a heart that remains spiritually awake. The apostle Peter writes with urgency, reminding believers to "be sober" and "be vigilant." His words are not meant to create fear, but to make us aware of our responsibility. Faith is not meant to drift along passively. It calls us into attentive living. Peter was writing this letter to Christians who were experiencing hardship and persecution at the hands of the Romans.

In that context, spiritual alertness was essential. Trials can either deepen our faith or slowly weaken our resolve. Without vigilance, discouragement, doubt, or temptation can quietly take root and stray us away from our walk of faith. Being vigilant begins in the inner life. It means paying attention to what shapes our thoughts, influences our decisions, and directs our affections. Just as a watchman carefully guards the city gates, believers are called to guard their hearts. Small compromises here and there, neglected prayer, or spiritual complacency slowly dull our sensitivity to God's voice.

Yet vigilance is not merely defensive. It is relational. A vigilant heart stays close to God. Through prayer, reflection on Scripture, and quiet dependence on the Holy Spirit, we remain spiritually awake. When we walk closely with God, we begin to recognise His guidance more clearly and resist what leads us away from Him. Jesus Himself often urged His disciples to "watch and pray" (Matthew 26:41). In the garden of Gethsemane, while He prayed with deep intensity, the disciples fell asleep. Their physical sleep revealed the difficulty of remaining alert in moments that truly matter. Many times, the greatest spiritual dangers are not dramatic but gradual. Distraction replaces devotion, routine replaces reverence, and faith becomes something assumed rather than actively lived. A vigilant life gently resists that drift. It keeps the heart attentive to God's presence and responsive to His leading.

May our hearts remain awake, our faith steady, and our eyes attentive to His work. For the one who keeps watch will recognise God's voice even in the quietest moments.

Every Space Tells a Story

"Surely the Lord is in this place, and I was not aware of it." - Genesis 28:16

Spaces hold stories. A quiet room, a hospital corridor, a familiar road, or even a simple chair by the window can carry memories of moments that shaped us. Some spaces remind us of joy and celebration, while others carry the weight of desperate pleas. Yet in ways we often fail to notice, God has been present in each of those places.

In Genesis 28, Jacob found himself alone in the wilderness, far from home and uncertain about the future. That lonely place seemed ordinary. Just another patch of land to rest for the night. While Jacob slept, God met him in a dream, revealing a ladder reaching from earth to heaven and reaffirming His promise. When Jacob awoke, he realised something profound: "Surely the Lord is in this place, and I was not aware of it."

We, too, like Jacob, often forget that God's presence is not confined to sacred buildings or special moments. The spaces of our everyday lives become places of encounter when God meets us there.

Think about the places where your faith has quietly deepened. Perhaps it was a hospital room where you prayed for strength. Maybe it was a long walk where clarity finally came. Or a quiet morning by your study table where Scripture suddenly spoke directly to your aching heart. Each of those spaces now carries a story of God's faithfulness.

Often, we recognise these sacred moments in hindsight. At the time, the space seemed ordinary, even uncomfortable. But later, we realise that God was teaching us trust, patience, or deeper dependence on Him.

When we begin to see life this way, the ordinary spaces around us take on new meaning. Our workplaces, homes, and daily routines are not spiritually empty places. They are potential meeting grounds where God quietly works in our lives.

Let's pause and reflect on the spaces that have shaped your journey. The places where you prayed, struggled, waited, and hoped all carry stories of God's presence. For when God walks with us, even the most ordinary space becomes holy ground.

Are You A Good Friend?

Have you ever asked yourself this question? Or have you always expected someone else to be the perfect friend for you?

Recently, I asked myself: Am I the kind of friend God expects me to be?

Proverbs 29:4 says that a kind friend refreshes the soul. I witnessed this firsthand when a spinal cord injury patient encouraged another patient to do her push-ups with a soulful smile and eyes filled with God's love. She gently said, "Call on God; He will answer you." That moment was truly inspiring.

It made me reflect: Are we encouraging our friends even before expecting someone else to do it for us?

In 1 Thessalonians 5:11, it says, "Therefore encourage one another and build each other up, just as in fact you are doing." Yet, we often fail to do this. We get so caught up in our busy schedules that we forget to be someone who brings out the best in others, loving them at their worst, laughing when they laugh, and standing with them when they cry. A good friend never misses these moments.

Some friends say, "Call me if you need me," and there are a few who stay with you through both storms and joy. Which one are you going to be?

To be a good friend, we must listen, accept, and embrace imperfections both ours and others'. God also reminds us to forgive those who hurt us, just as He has forgiven us. Romans 12:10 says, "Be devoted to one another in love. Honour one another above yourselves."

Let us show that we care more about our friends' needs by truly listening to them, valuing them, and loving them unconditionally with God's help. Let us build one another up in Christ. Even a simple smile can light up someone's day.

Carry that smile and love in your heart. Ask God to fill your heart with love and compassion. Seek His guidance to shape you into a good friend, so that through you, His love is reflected to others.

Heartily Working For The Lord

Colossians 3:23 says, "Whatever you do, work heartily, as for the Lord and not for men."

It's disheartening when your hard work, whether in your job, service or quiet acts of kindness, goes unnoticed. People may overlook your efforts, leaving you feeling invisible.

Yet Paul shifts our focus: our true audience is the Lord, not human approval. When you offer your work to God, earthly recognition loses its power to define your value.

Every labour matters to Him, even the efforts you put in secret. Jesus affirms this in Matthew 6:4: "Your Father who sees in secret will reward you."

The writer of Hebrews adds in Hebrews 6:10: "God is not unjust to overlook your work and the love that you showed for his name."

Paul encourages steadfastness, declaring in 1 Corinthians 15:58 that "Your labour in the Lord is not in vain," while Ecclesiastes 9:10 calls us to "whatever your hand finds to do, do it with your might."

Shift your gaze upward. Serve as unto the Lord, finding joy in His pleasure alone. Your unseen faithfulness builds eternal reward.

Prayer: Dear Lord, help us to focus on You and Your heavenly kingdom. Let us not be discouraged when no one encourages us. Help us to run the race set before us. Give us the wisdom to understand spiritual things, and help us fix our eyes on You, not on worldly things. In Jesus' name we pray, Amen.

Leader From The Lows

When David was shepherding his father's sheep, he wasn't sure whether God called him to lead a nation in future. David was keen on his duties; somehow, Samuel came to Jesse's house, and he anointed him to be the king.

Likewise, David just came to see his brothers while Goliath was raging against the Israelites, David had an inner faith, or we can say a confidence that he could defeat Goliath.

Have you ever wondered how that confidence and courage come from a young boy who has never been in army training, whose world is shepherding and maintaining his father's house?

It is not on our own but through Christ, who gives strength every day.

In Philippians 4:13, it says that I can do all things through Christ, who strengthens me and in our Weakness God's strength will exalt us highly. We should not say that I'm lean, I'm short, and I'm inferior to someone; rather, we should boast in our confidence in the Lord.

1 Corinthians 1:28-31 answers the basic etiquette for a successful leader.

In verse 28, it says that God chooses lowly things of the world to shame the wise; He never cares about Educational background, certifications or Family background, but He looks at our hearts.

The reason why God lifts ordinary people is to remember that no one should boast on themself, as mentioned in verse 31, "Let the one who boasts boast in the Lord"

One Day At A Time: Trusting God Beyond Tomorrow

"Therefore do not worry about tomorrow, for tomorrow will worry about itself. Each day has enough trouble of its own." - Matthew 6:34

In our daily lives, we often think about our future, our responsibilities, our families, and the uncertainties ahead, and our worries towards these often feel unavoidable, and we tend to carry tomorrow's burdens before they even arrive. But in this verse, Jesus gently redirects our focus. He is not telling that life will be filled only with joy, excitement, and peace, but He acknowledges that each day has its own challenges and teaches us how to live with peace in the middle of those challenges.

Worry pulls us into a future we cannot control, while God calls us to be faithful in the present. When we worry excessively, we tend to forget what God has given us today. He reminds us that just as He provides for our needs now, He will also be present in our tomorrow. Trusting Him means releasing our need to control over what has not yet happened.

Birds wake each morning without having any worries about tomorrow, yet they find food, build nests, and care for their young. They don't overthink where their next meal will come from, but they simply trust their Creator.

If the Creator could provide plenty for them, then why not for Us?

We carry many responsibilities, but we are not meant to carry them alone. God tells us to lay our anxieties before Him and walk in trust. When we focus on today and rely on His grace, we find strength and peace for the present and hope and happiness for the future.

So let us choose trust over worry, faith over fear, and peace over anxiety, one day at a time.

One Step - Faithful Action

Many a time, we pray to God to help us do His will in our lives, and we long to follow His purpose. But when the time comes, what is our response to His calling?

We know that once we surrender ourselves to Him, He will take care of everything. We trust Him and have faith in Him. But when it is time to take action, what do we do? The calling may be for a purpose we are not good at or something we fear. In such situations, we become more conscious of our weaknesses than of the strength that God will provide in the journey.

We begin to make excuses to God. In the Bible, the great leader Moses faced a similar situation. When God called him for a greater purpose, he became more conscious of his weakness. In Exodus 4:10, Moses said to the Lord, "O my Lord, I am not eloquent, neither before nor since You have spoken to Your servant; but I am slow of speech and slow of tongue."

Christ Himself lived as an example for us. He prayed intensely in Gethsemane before accomplishing His ultimate purpose. Luke 22:42–44 says: Father, remove this cup from me. Yet not what I want, but what You want. Then an angel from heaven appeared to Him and strengthened Him. He prayed more earnestly, and His sweat was like drops of blood falling to the ground.

In situations where faithful action is needed, focusing on our weaknesses can hold us back from doing God's will. We must shift our focus from our weaknesses to the Almighty God, who knows the plan. He is our Creator, and the Creator knows our potential.

The apostle Paul writes in 2 Corinthians 12:9 that God's power is made perfect in our weakness. James 2:17 emphasises action, reminding us that faith without action is dead.

So when we pray about the purpose of our lives, let us also ask God to instil in us obedience to His call and the strength to act with faith in Christ. Our response - the one step we take is very important in moving forward with the plan that Christ has for us.

Let's Be Like Barnabas

Barnabas was called "the son of consolation" (Acts 4:36), the son of encouragement. When everyone was afraid of Paul because of his past, Barnabas chose faith over fear.

"Barnabas took him, and brought him to the apostles" (Acts 9:27). He saw what others could not see and boldly stood for a man whom others doubted.

Barnabas did not allow rumours or past failures to guide his judgment. Instead, he recognised God's work in people. When he came to Antioch, he was glad, and exhorted them all, that with purpose of heart they would cleave unto the Lord (Acts 11:23).

The Bible describes him as "a good man, and full of the Holy Ghost and of faith" (Acts 11:24). He was also generous, for he "having land, sold it, and brought the money, and laid it at the apostles' feet" (Acts 4:37).

Throughout his life, Barnabas lifted others, welcoming new believers, strengthening the church, and even giving second chances. When others hesitated, "Barnabas determined to take with them John" (Acts 15:37). He believed people could grow, change, and be used by God.

Barnabas shows us that encouragement is powerful. A life that speaks hope, defends the overlooked, and strengthens the weak can change someone's future.

Today, God is still looking for people who will choose to be encouragers. Let us be like Barnabas, seeing others not just as they are, but as God is shaping them to be.

Rest Is A Reality

In Hebrews 4:9, the author offers a reassurance of hope: "There remains, then, a Sabbath-rest for the people of God."

The author is referring to more than just observing a specific day of the week. It's about an inward peace and wholeness with God, not depending on external circumstances.

Through faith and trust in God, we can find a deep and lasting rest for our souls, reminding us of the eternal rest to come.

This Sabbath rest serves as a precursor to a promise that concludes in a future, perfect rest (Revelation 14:13).

The rest we get to experience here is only a shadow, and what we hope for is the reality (Colossians 2:17).

Sabbath rest isn't earned. It's a gift God offers to all who seek Him.

As you contemplate Hebrews 4:9, consider: What it would look like for you to fully enter God's rest in your daily life. How can you practice releasing your burdens and anxieties to Him?

The promise of Sabbath rest is not just a concept. It's a reality for those who walk faithfully with God.

Are You Tired And Weary?

Be it a closed door,
Or an unanswered prayer,
Waiting for many years
With silence and tears,
Are you tired and weary?
Jesus says, "Come to Me"

Be it the storms at work, in family,
Or your heart's war that none can see,
Weighed down by the troubles of each day
Are you too overwhelmed to say,
Are you tired and weary?
Jesus says, "Come to Me"

Look unto the author and finisher of our faith
Throwing aside every weight.
Your life in all its entirety,
Face its moments on your knee.

One word for those
Who gives a rose,
Getting a thorn in return.
Are you tired of this season?
Where you do good,
Only to be misunderstood
And wronged?
Remember the Lord.

Hebrews 12:3
"For consider Him who endured such hostility from sinners against Himself, lest you become weary and discouraged in your souls."

If you are hurting and tired,
And help seems distant and quiet,
Call to mind, this is a broken world
But you are greatly loved.
Rest, knowing He sees your tears and sorrow
For He holds your tomorrow.

May your hope be drawn from Jesus,
As you bear His image and be His witness.

Supernatural Directions

Isaiah 30:21 "Whether you turn to the right or to the left, your ears will hear a voice behind you saying this is the way; walk in it ". Psalms 32:8 "I will instruct you and teach you in the way you should go; I will counsel you with my eye upon you". These scriptures talk about the God who directs our ways. Throughout the Bible, we can see miraculous and supernatural directions.

Let's glance into the book of Joshua, Chapter Three, where we can see a supernatural direction. During the Exodus of the Israelites under the leadership of the great man of God Joshua, they arrived near the river Jordan, where they felt like moving forward was impossible, and there was no way to cross it.

They were totally perplexed about what to do and which direction to take. Yet do you know what God did? He made a way that was totally beyond what they could comprehend. He split Jordan into two and made a dry and perfect way through it to reach their promise, and made His people experience the supernatural direction in which no human has taken before. Truly, it was a supernatural direction!

The same God who did that for His children in those eras is still willing to do it for each one of us. Sometimes our mind ought to overthink, which results in taking wrong directions, which might end up in misery. At times, we doubt the delays as denials and try out our own ways to make certain things happen, resulting in a huge mess. Many more times, we get carried away by peer pressure and wind up in distress.

Let us learn the truth, the only person who knows how to direct us throughout our voyage on earth is "Jesus" himself. He who made the Heaven, earth, its belongings, and us knew the whole picture of our lives, and so He could take us in the right directions. In every step, if we could seek His directions and wait on his timing, He will never let us down.

May God help you to trust His directions and take a leap of faith even though it's beyond what you could comprehend. Because in the end, He will prove that it was all worth it. May He also help us to discern His supernatural directions by silencing the noises of the world.

Pound Constantly

"Ask and it will be given to you; seek and you will find; knock and it will be opened to you " - Mathew 7:7. This scripture talks about three different and principal values: ask, seek and knock. Let's look into it.

Once, Jesus told a parable. In a certain city, there was a judge who neither feared God nor respected man, and there was a widow in that city who kept coming to him and saying," Give me justice against my adversary".

For a while, the judge refused, but afterwards he said, Luke: 18:4,5 "Though I neither fear God nor respect man, yet because this widow keeps bothering me, I will give her justice, so that she will not beat me down by her continual coming." Jesus said this to make the crowd understand the truth that God answers those who ask, seek and knock continuously and to affirm to them that He will give justice to them on time.

And in another place, Jesus said an example of a person who goes to his friend at midnight to lend three loaves for another friend of his who has arrived on a journey. Initially, he said not to bother him as the door was shut, the children were with him in bed, and so many other excuses, but due to the continuous knocking, he rose up and gave him whatever he needed.

This illustration God used to convey that for everyone who asks, receives, and the one who seeks, finds, and to the one who knocks, it will be opened for him.

My beloved readers! What do we understand from the above-mentioned sayings of Jesus? It simply means that our lovely heavenly Father always responds with answers when we keep on pounding on Heaven's doors.

So take heart, never give up on praying and believing. We serve a loving father who always answers us on time.

When The Journey Feels Too Heavy

“I cannot carry all these people by myself; the burden is too heavy for me.”

-Numbers 11:10-15

Even Moses, the great leader, felt overwhelmed. He carried responsibility, pressure, and constant complaints from people. Day after day, the weight increased. Finally, he reached a breaking point and cried out to God.

This shows us something important: feeling overwhelmed is not a weakness; it is a normal part of the journey. Sometimes life feels too heavy. Responsibilities pile up. Expectations increase.

You try to handle everything on your own until you reach a point where you can’t anymore. But God never intended for you to carry everything alone. When Moses admitted his weakness, God responded. He provided help. He shared the burden. He gave support.

Many times, we struggle silently because we think we must handle everything ourselves. But God invites us to bring our burdens to Him. You don’t have to pretend to be strong. You don’t have to carry everything alone.

God gives strength for the journey, and often, He also provides people to help you. When the weight feels too much, don’t quit. Don’t isolate. Turn to God.

Prayer: Lord, when life feels overwhelming, remind me that You are always with me. Teach me to surrender every burden into Your hands. Strengthen me in my weakness, renew my spirit, and lead me forward with Your wisdom and guidance. Amen.

The Life That Flows Through The Vine

"Abide in Me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit of itself, unless it abides in the vine, neither can you, unless you abide in Me." - John 15:4

Jesus depicts one of the most beautiful pictures of our relationship with Him. He calls Himself the true vine, we are the branches, and God the Father is the gardener who tends the vineyard. It is a simple image, but it shows us that life, strength, and fruitfulness flow from connection.

A branch does not struggle to produce fruit by effort alone. It simply remains connected to the vine. The life within the vine flows into the branch, and fruit becomes the natural result. But the moment the branch is separated, it withers. It cannot survive, much less produce fruit. Jesus is gently reminding us of our dependence. We were never meant to live the Christian life without Christ. Apart from Him, through our sheer willpower, we cannot sustain spiritual life.

To abide means to remain, to stay, to dwell without drifting. It is not a momentary experience but an ongoing relationship. It means choosing daily to stay close to Christ through prayer, through the quiet reading of Scripture, through listening to His Spirit and yielding our hearts to His guidance.

This kind of closeness slowly changes us. It reshapes our attitudes, our reactions, and our desires. What once felt forced begins to grow naturally. Our lives start to reflect what Paul calls the fruit of the Spirit—love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control (Galatians 5:22–23).

Notice that Scripture calls it fruit, not fruits. These qualities grow together as evidence that the life of Christ is flowing through us. Abiding is about connection. Some seasons feel vibrant, others feel slow and quiet. Yet the gardener is always at work, pruning, shaping, and strengthening the branch so it can bear even more fruit.

Our calling is simply to remain in the vine. And when we do, the life of Jesus quietly begins to appear in us until the fruit of our lives reflects the One to whom we are forever connected.

A Sacred Reminder Of Eternal Life

Communion!! We partake in it every Sunday. Has anyone wondered why taking part in the communion plays a huge role in getting eternal life? Communion is an act of remembrance of the love and sacrifice of our Lord Jesus Christ on the cross. Our elders often say that we have to prepare ourselves to take part in it. Have you ever wondered why? It is about believing that all our sins have been atoned for by Jesus.

Luke 22:19-20 – "And he took bread, gave thanks and broke it, and gave it to them, saying, 'This is my body given for you; do this in remembrance of me.' In the same way, after the supper he took the cup, saying, 'This cup is the new covenant in my blood, which is poured out for you." The Holy Communion is believed to be an act of remembrance of the covenant of God's love for His people. By giving His life (breaking of the bread) and shedding His blood (new covenant in blood), Jesus gave us a shot at redemption.

In 1 Corinthians 11:26 – "For whenever you eat this bread and drink this cup, you proclaim the Lord's death until he comes" Paul reinstates that taking part in Communion is not just a regular thing that you do in church. It is about declaring one's faith in Christ's sacrifice and the anticipation of His return. This faith of Jesus sacrificing himself for our sins is the key to eternal life, as it means being unified with Christ and other followers. Taking part in the Communion is a true source of our life as it points to Jesus as the true spiritual sustenance that we need, a kind of energy boost.

We can see that the believers in Acts 2:42 – " And they devoted themselves to the apostles' teaching and the fellowship, to the breaking of bread and the prayers"- prove that taking part in communion has always been the heart of Christian fellowship. Being a part of it is not about just being physically present there, but it's about getting ourselves totally committed to what we believe.

Prayer: Dear Lord, thank you for the ultimate sacrifice that you have made for us. We believe that all our sins have been forgiven, and we are now a part of a sinless life. Thank you, Lord, for leading us in a path that keeps us away from the clutches of this world and its temptations to go astray. Amen.
